FOUR PITCHING BRINGS DISASTER TO NEW-YORK AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS BATS FOR TWENTY-NINE BASES AND GETS EIGHT BASES ON BALLS.

GAMES YESTERDAY. St. Louis, 16, New-York 4. (Cleveland 1, Philadelphia 1, Pittsburgh 2, Chicago 1, Washington 1, Cincinnati 3, Baltimore 1.)

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—The Browns' "Silver King" curves all over the field today, and defeated New-York without a struggle. It was the hardest pounding of the season here.

One would have thought that King would have been on his best behavior here, as he was formerly a member of the St. Louis team. He had no control of the ball, giving eight men bases on balls, hitting one, and then, to cap the climax, being hit for a total of twenty-nine bases. With such a handicap the New-York team was powerless. King's all-around work was superb.

LAST DAY AT MONMOUTH.

FIVE HANDICAPS OUT OF SIX RACES.

MARE AND PICKPOCKET RAN A DEAD HEAT.

The Monmouth Park Association has had a marvellous season of fine days for nearly all of its races this year, but it closed the season of 1892 with rain falling heavily. Nevertheless, the number of spectators was by no means scanty. Five out of the six races of the afternoon were handicaps, but the work of the handicapper was not marked by overwhelming success, although a dead heat occurred in the Jersey Handicap, for three-year-olds.

Only three owners accepted the weights in the first race, which was, however, a fair betting contest. The Carteret Handicap, for two-year-olds, was practically a gift for the money, as Mare and Pickpocket were practically the only horses going, and Mare, with his light weight, and galloped easily home as if he were out for fun and not running for a rich stake. Russell was tossed into the third race with only 102 pounds on his back, but Little Penn could not persuade him to extend himself at all, and he came in a wretched

It has long been reported that Loochathene was at a hopeless disadvantage in mind. Yet he was third in the Jersey Handicap for three-year-olds, and with Garrison, Tonal or Fitzpatrick on his back, would have won easily. Hamilton was so overcome by a half spell, as he so often is, and rode miserably. Minnehaha had only a very weak field to defeat in the fifth race, and was under a pull all the way. In the last race, a selling affair, only three horses ran. One of these is owned by Boyle &amp; Littlefield, and both of the others are owned by Charles

Littlefield, Jr., who is the son of Boyle's partner in the sale of the public who will patronize good racing in preference to the scrambles and better-seller affairs at minor tracks. The trainers give Superintendent Van Munching unstinted praise for the attention which he paid to their wants, and not a word of complaint has been heard about the condition of either the old or new track. Yesterday's racing was not a success, but the beginning of the new season was not a failure. The public was treated to a dead heat in the Jersey Handicap between Mare and Pickpocket, with Loochathene, who was clearly the best colt in the race, a moderate third. As Loochathene is not at his best on a muddy track, the race was considered a fair one.

JOHN MORLEY'S FATE IN DOUBT.

A HEAVY VOTE POLLED IN NEWCASTLE.

THE RESULT NOT TO BE DECLARED UNTIL TO-DAY—BOTH CANDIDATES PUT IN A HARD DAY'S WORK.

London, Aug. 25.—The election in Newcastle-on-Tyne to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons that occurred upon John Morley's accepting the post of Chief Secretary for Ireland was held to-day, but the result of the poll will not be declared until to-morrow. Mr. Morley, who stood for re-election in the district, was opposed by Pandolfi Hall, who stood in the Liberal Unionist interest. The climax of the contest was a comparatively uneventful polling day. There was an enormous display of rival colors, which appeared rather to favor Mr. Morley. Both sides were well served with vehicles. Mr. Morley drove to every corner of the constituency. Both he and Mr. Hall, the latter being accompanied by Mr. Hammond, were cordially received. As the day of success.

The exertions of Messrs. Wilson and Davitt, M. P., it is believed, induced many electors to vote for Mr. Morley.

Although as a result of the holiday in the Desmond district many voters were absent, the poll was unexpectedly heavy, 24,051 votes being cast, against 24,560 recorded in the general election. Throughout the day there was plenty of noise and excitement. Mr. Morley, who passed the Elbow work while the men were leaving off doors, and who was cheered enthusiastically, advised the men to poll quickly, and said that if workmen did their duty their opponents would be soon driven out of the district. He was in the close of the poll the thoroughfare before the town hall, to which the ballot-boxes were taken, was blocked with people, some of whom were shouting, but no serious disturbance occurred. The result of the poll will be declared to-morrow.

For half a century Newcastle has, excepting from 1874 to 1880, been represented by two Liberals. Mr. Hammond managed to secure one of the seats for the Conservatives during Lord Beaconsfield's Premiership, but in 1880 two Liberals were again returned. During the last twelve years, notwithstanding the growth of the register, the Liberal poll in Newcastle has shown no elasticity, with the Conservative vote holding its own, and some of the first-class seats were won by Mr. Morley's majority was greatly reduced.

Mr. Morley, who passed the Elbow work while the men were leaving off doors, and who was cheered enthusiastically, advised the men to poll quickly, and said that if workmen did their duty their opponents would be soon driven out of the district. He was in the close of the poll the thoroughfare before the town hall, to which the ballot-boxes were taken, was blocked with people, some of whom were shouting, but no serious disturbance occurred. The result of the poll will be declared to-morrow.

For half a century Newcastle has, excepting from 1874 to 1880, been represented by two Liberals. Mr. Hammond managed to secure one of the seats for the Conservatives during Lord Beaconsfield's Premiership, but in 1880 two Liberals were again returned. During the last twelve years, notwithstanding the growth of the register, the Liberal poll in Newcastle has shown no elasticity, with the Conservative vote holding its own, and some of the first-class seats were won by Mr. Morley's majority was greatly reduced.
